Hello <agent name>,

HAPPY <Insert day of the week>! Your challenge this week is to check in with yourself!

Studies show that meditation and mindfulness produce long-term health benefits – mentally, physically and emotionally. Make it a daily ritual to meditate, breathe or visualize in order to calm your mind. Call this whatever you'd like, be it meditation, quiet time, or just time you set aside for journaling and/or reflection. The point is, you need to make time to check in with yourself and get in touch with your thoughts. This habit will help you to be aware of what is bothering you, what you're feeling good about, or what needs to be addressed, so that you can get a clear sense of what you need to do next. If you can address a problem before it spirals out of control, you've saved yourself a lot of time and energy. If you take the time to recognize and become more aware for the good things in your life, you may develop a more positive outlook on life and lift your mood.

Basically, check in with yourself 10-15 minutes each day. Need help getting started? See the image below and start by asking yourself the following questions:

If you're meditating in the morning:

- What are 3 things I'm grateful for today?
- What will I do to make today great?
- What is bothering me today and what can I do about it?

 (If there is nothing you can do about it) How can I change my attitude about this and deal with it the best way possible?

If you're meditating at night:

- What are 3 great things that happened today?
- How could I have made today even better?
- What upset me today and what can I do about it?

 (If there is nothing you can do about it) How can I change my attitude about this and deal with it the best way possible?

Remember, there is only 1 you. This year is about less stress, good health and a positive mindset!!

Thank you for your support!
